

2010 EASTERN SHORE TRIP

November 10, 11, 12, 13, 14

As I write this in 90 degree plus high humidity August weather, I'm thinking how refreshing the cool November ocean breezes will be and I can't wait. I have been promised that the weather will be better than last year. That's not saying much, as you may recall.

After a three year absence, we'll be starting this years' adventure on Long Beach Island where we'll take in the Barnaget Lighthouse and the many inlets and bays along this barrier island. Then head south to Brigantine and John Forsyth Wildlife Refuge, the Avalon Sea Watch and Cape May. We will cross the Lewes Ferry to Rehoboth Beach and the Delaware Shore including Bombay Hook and many of the habitats along the bay. After three solid days of birding, ending with the evening show of Snow Geese, a banquet dinner and bed will let us rest up for Sunday's trip home. Breakfast, hotel check-out, a few last minute birding stops, and saying our good-byes will finish up the trip for another year.

You may, of course, drive yourself or make plans to "leave the driving to us" as we'll be taking vans from Wheeling with stops along the way. Van costs will be divided by those passengers.

Price includes Wednesday, Thursday, Friday, and Saturday nights lodging (double occupancy); Thursday, Friday, Saturday, and Sunday morning breakfast; Thursday, Friday, and Saturday lunch; and banquet dinner on Saturday. Single rooms are available with a supplement. A full itinerary complete with maps, phone numbers, and addresses of where we'll be staying will be sent to everyone who signs up.
