

Schrader Environmental Education Center's Junior Nature Camp

Since 1944, young people ages 10-15 have been making memories and lifelong friends at Oglebay Institute's Junior Nature Camp. With a goal to increase understanding of our natural world in an environment that promotes teamwork, personal responsibility and respect, Junior Nature Camp's field experience can't be equaled in any classroom.

Junior Nature Camp is held at Camp Giscowheco, a picturesque setting located in the hills of West Virginia, 10 minutes from Wheeling. The camp facility includes platform tent villages, dining hall, swimming pool and a volleyball court. The stream, forest and meadow provide the perfect outdoor classroom for the study of everything from invertebrates and ferns to birds and mammals.

Camp Highlights:

- Canoeing
- Swimming
- Orienteering
- Arts & Crafts
- Music
- Archery
- Nightly Campfires
- Lessons in ornithology, botany, herpetology, astronomy, entomology, ecology and watershed science

Camp Fees:

One Week: $375 ($350 OI members)

July 15-21 OR July 22-28, 2018

Two Weeks: $750 ($700 OI members)

July 15-28, 2018

How to Register:

ONLINE: Register online at <http://oionline.com/camps/juniornaturecamp/>

BY PHONE: Call 304-242-6855 to register by phone.

IN PERSON: Visit the Schrader Environmental Education Center located in Oglebay Resort during regular business hours. Oglebay Institute accepts Visa, MasterCard, Discover and personal checks. Please have credit card information ready when registering by phone.